A sympathetic update of its much-loved predecessor, the Land Rover Series II was introduced in April 1958. Available with a choice of 2.25-litre petrol or 2-litre diesel engines, the Series II accounted for some 62,000 sales in its first two years of production. In 1961, the subtly upgraded Series IIA benefited from an improved cooling system and is thought to have been the most successful variant, with sales around 1969/70 believed to have reached 60,000 units a year.

Presented in Green with contrasting black interior, PFF 576 presents an opportunity to acquire one of these desirable vehicles in 'barn find' condition. Manufactured in 1962, the odometer currently displays 13,754 miles and included with the vehicle are the majority of the additional parts required to complete this particular example. As well as the V5 document. Please note, PFF 576 requires an engine and engine mounts as both are not included with the vehicle.
